Formatting a Publication

BACKGROUND INFORMATION FOR LEARNERS

In the previous learning activity sheet, we have tackled the basics of inputting a text and how to layout them. Now, in this learning activity sheet, we are going to have an in-depth study of formatting.

In the previous lesson that you had, you have learned the function of Font Size, Font Style, Font Color and Change Case. Now, let us take a look at the group which concerns the alignment of text. It can be seen in the Paragraph group.

The Paragraph group can be seen in the Home tab next to the Font group. It has different commands, and they are the following:

- Bullets and Numbering
- Indentation

- Columns
- Paragraph Alignment
- Line Spacing
- Special Characters

LEARNING COMPETENCY

This learning activity sheet will enable you to use the menu bar and to be familiarized with its functions. This will be achieved by forming a text using the commands under the Paragraph group.

ACTIVITIES

ACTIVITY 1

Directions/Instructions: In each number, you will be asked to do different tasks which will lead you to more learnings about the discussion above. Follow each instruction stated in each number. God bless you!

1. Below are the commands which can be found in the Paragraph group. Find their functions by using different available resources such as books, the internet or even persons who are knowledgeable in computers. Write your answers in a one whole sheet of paper.

- a. Bullets and Numbering
- b. Indentation
- c. Columns
- d. Paragraph Alignment
- e. Line Spacing
- f. Special Characters

2. Insert a Text Box and type the sentence below 15 times:

The quick brown fox jumps over the lazy dog.

After typing the sentence above 15 times, execute the following commands and write your observations in a one whole sheet of paper:

- a. Click the four alignments one by one (Left, Center, Right, and Justified)
- b. Select all the text. Then click Decrease Indent.
- c. Select all the text. Then click Increase Indent.
- d. Separate the sentences by pressing Enter. After separating them, click the Bullet command.
- e. Click again the Bullet command (notice whether the text came back to normal). Then, press the Numbering command.
- f. Select all the text. Then, click Line Spacing and select 2.0.

Guide Questions: write your answers in a one whole sheet of paper.

1. Which among the following commands under the Paragraph group did you find familiar?
2. While doing the second task, which among the commands you find it new?
